

Midwest Health System recovers $12 million in auto claims reimbursement

Challenge

A large Midwestern health system knew their MVA recovery program wasn't performing at full potential. With $4.6M in annual auto claims recovery through their existing vendor, leadership sought an objective analysis before committing to a new direction.

Solution

The health system engaged Revecore for a Comprehensive Recovery Analysis – using their own historical claims data to model what a specialized program could realistically achieve. Armed with a projected lift of $4.4–$8.4M, they moved forward with confidence.

Results

By identifying and addressing untapped reimbursement opportunities, the health system achieved a dramatic increase in auto claims recovery.

$12M+

in additional auto claims reimbursement recovered within 12 months of full ramp

Recovery more than doubled the high end of the original projection

A data-driven decision process gave leadership the conviction to act – and the results validated it
